PADDY AND PETER'S PENCE

William Johnson

Father, O Father, I'm a much puzzled man,
For there's a custom in the Church (?) I don't quite understand, It's this giving of money they call Peter's Pence.
To be used mainly and solely for the Vatican's expense.
If every Church (?) gives a portion throughout this great land,
The Vatican surely must be kept very grand;
So I stopped in to-day to get open my eyes,
For I know that you surely will put me quite wise.
Paddy, my boy, just between you and me,
Peter's Pence is a graft, pure and simple, you see;
The old Pope of Rome, in his mansion so grand,
Is the richest old guy anywhere in this land
The Vatican is large and supports quite a crowd,
Who are sporty as kings and undoubtedly as proud And they kneel down in prayer when the money comes in,
As they fall down in a stupor from drinking their gin.
There's a thousand or more rooms in the Vatican, you see,
And an army is maintained to protect the clergy.
The Pope has his pleasures, his passions, his mirth,
And longs for the day when he'll rule the whole earth.
His cardinals and bishops are provided for well,
And do lots of things it won't do to tell:
Such as swearing and drinking, and nights in the park,
But they're mindful to keep all their deeds good and dark.
Father, since this is so true, as you say,
I am telling you now, before I bid you good day,
That Paddy O'Brien doesn't believe in such fakes,
And never again will he contribute to snakes.
The old Pope of Rome is a faker, true blue,
But he has faked once too many, for with I'm through.
He can holler for money and appeal 'till he dies,
But I'll not open my pocketbook, since I've opened my eyes.

He can threaten diminution to those who don't give,

But with all his vain threatenings, I'll go on and live.
As for his cardinals, and bishops, and the rest of the insane,
They haven't the sense to come in out of the rain.
So you can give my regards to the heathen old Pope

And tell him to be cheerful and keep up his hope,

For he'll find it much better to keep cool, the old bear,

For in the next world he'll be troubled with heat.

PADDY AND PRIESTLY CELIBACY

William Johnson

Father, O Father, the talk of the day

Is of your mad courtship of the Widow O'Shea;

The people are wondering just how it will end

And whence comes the money the Widow does spend.

You know it looks bad for a man like yourself,

Who promised that all women should be laid on the shelf.

When you took the oath that the good Church (?) requires,

Your thoughts should have soared up beyond the blue skies.

Paddy, my boy, just between you and me,

We priests are but humans, as anyone can see.

The oath that we take is but a matter of form

And guarantees nothing, so what is the harm?

Of course, we like pleasure, theatres and such,

And we drink our good whiskey and beer like the Dutch.

We do many things that the people don't know,

And we aren't the ones to be telling them so.

Father so long as your thoughts run this way

It's useless to think in the Church (?) I'll stay;

So I'm serving you notice right here on the spot

That I'm not trusting my wife with a whiskey-soaked sot.

My children I'll send to some grand Sunday School.

Where they'll be taught to believe the Lord's Golden Rule.

Sure, never again will you fool Pat O'Brien,

For though I am poor, I'm not a bit blind.

You can rave, you can rant, you can smack your bald head,

But I'm thankful I'm alive, though once I was dead.

You can fill your old carcass with rum day and night

And all day long with your housekeepers fight.

You can court all the widows and women in town

And have a good time while you paint the town brown

But if ever I catch you a block from my house

I'll kill you as quick as I'd kill a barn mouse.

Basket Ball

has been taken to insure the comfort of the basket ball fans.

We hope that the citizens of Barbourville will turn out in good numbers to witness this, for judging from the material on both the teams it will be a corking good, fast, soap-py game of basket ball, and we guarantee a thrill every minute, besides the team needs the financial as well as the moral support of the town and if you can give them that, we are sure that they will furnish you with an extremely interesting as well satisfying article of basketball, the boys are out for the championship again this year and let's all help them to win it. Don't forget the date, Saturday night, Nov. 21 at the Gym.

The "Star" twinkles every night with four reels of pictures.

It, as a Chicago doctor says, one-fourth of the cancer fatalities are due to a wrong diagnosis.
The announcement, or rather the newspaper talk, has it for Governor
Edward J. McDermott, Senator
Camden General James
Garnett, H. M. Bosworth and possibly some others, the next of importance is Auditor and we will hold Robt. L. Green, and Percy Haley and others for Secretary of State. W. P. Walton, they stop on these as far as we have noticed,
well, so far it looks easy for the Republicans, any of them would be easy prey.

A Chicago banker says the United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois says the United States will be fighting Japan before the next presidential election. What will we fight them with? Will we have to depend upon puppons and pitchforks loaded with faith?

That's about all we have in the line of national defense.

ONCE AGAIN—CALEB.

Once more Caleb Powers comes down the pike in the Eleventh District with some 10,000 votes to the good. And we were assured that all the Democrats, Progressives, Independents, Socialists and one-headed Republicans were going to unite on our old friend John Henry Wilson.
We believe John Henry carried a county or two by a tight squeeze and Caleb got the balance, which is just another case of history repeating itself. Looks like Caleb is about the sort of Representative that the Eleventh District likes.—State Journal.

Yes, he is just the kind of Representative we want, if he was not we would not elect him, and the size of his majority bespeaks for him the high esteem his constituents hold for him. He was nominated by the Republican party, and his name was placed upon the ballot under the Log Cabin, and with only about 60% of the voters out on election day his majority was about 10,000.
Mr. Wilson, who was once a Ropublican, and as such was elected to Congress twice, ran on an Independent ticket. His was not in the race this time against Mr.
Powers, he was not supported by the Democrats, there were such a few Progressives that they helped Mr. Wilson but little, and as to one-headed Republicans in the Eleventh District, we beg to inform the world that there is no such thing in our camp. Mr. Powers carried every county in the District, leading the State ticket by more than 2000. Mr. Powers is coming to his own, he has been spurned by Democrats in the House of Congress, they have turned their noses up at him, but the time is coming soon when he will turn his nose up at them, and pass them up like a pay car passing a tramp.

The Republican party in the Eleventh have always stood in the front with its large majority.
As to the Democrats in the Eleventh District, they are as a rule good men, and are Democratic because they believe in its principles, they are Democrats without the hope of fee or reward except occasionally a post office or Deputy Collector's job, they would not vote for Mr. Wilson, they preferred to vote for Mr. Powers nearly all of them, as is shown by the returns. Mr.
Powers ran ahead of the ticket and can do so again. When will the Democrats and the Democratic press let up on Powers?

The time is coming with guard dogs and gun dogs & we are not far along yet any longer.

The election is already electing a president in 1916.
But we have to fear lightning.

Our right and wrong are standing up more and under pressure, but it is still so appallingly near.

Too bad the weaks have about all been "shanghaied." They might be stooged out and converted into ultra-right.

Democrats Hungry

The Democrats have begun to make their announcements for the various offices from Governor to Clerk of the Court of Appeals.
The announcement, or rather the
newspaper talk, has it for Governor
Edward J. McDermott, Senator
Camden General James
importance is Auditor and we
will hold Robt. L. Green, and Percy
these as far as we have noticed,
well, so far it looks easy for the Republicans, any of them would
be easy prey.

We have the highest regard for most of these gentlemen, we are personally acquainted with some of them, we would regret to see some of them nominated for one reason and some for another, which of course we will not mention at this time, but will hold ourselves ready to take sides when the time is right.

The fellow who wants office and is a candidate for one, and tells you that the people are pushing him out, and that he don't want the office for — the candidate usually pushes himself out.

PIKE COUNTY
VOTE FRAUD
PROBE ENDS

1,100 Persons are Indicted; Many Officials
Among Accused; Trials
Begin January 1.

EXCITEMENT RUNS HIGH
AND TROUBLE IS FEARED

SPECIAL IN THE ADVOCATE.

PIKEVILLE, KY., Nov. 20.—The Pike County Grand Jury adjourned Saturday afternoon, breaking all records for a probe of election frauds in this State, when it reported indictments against 1,100 persons who are charged with selling their vote, perjury in connection with elections.

The grand jury was in session forty-seven days and was under the direction of Judge J. M.
Roberson. A special session of the Pike County Circuit Court has been called to convene January 1 when these cases will be tried.

The enormity of the frauds became apparent soon after the grand jury began its investigation, and an extension of time was frequently asked for. In all 103 witnesses were examined, and the wholesale indictments include more than half the public officials of the county.

The Grand Juries of Knox County has not so far returned any indictments for vote frauds but they will in the future be more rigidly instructed by Judge Sampson if it can possibly be done. Our Judge and attorneys for the Commonwealth have determined to break up this evil, so that men who are disqualified, even they may be poor in this world goods may present himself to the voters and let them say who shall hold the offices of the county, State and district, without being run over rough shod by the man who has the money to buy himself into office.

We do not know whether Judge Sampson and Mr. Snyder either one will be candidates for re-election or not, but we believe that they have done their full duty in the matter of forever stamping out this great evil.
They have made it possible for the poor man who has prepared himself for the great battles of life to go before the people being intimidated by the misers, who have laid away their gold for the purpose of buying himself into office.
Money is not a fortification for office, or never was, but time was when those only who could command the biddle could hope to be elected in this county, now it is very different. Sentiment has changed, and the good people are ordinarily supporting the affairs who first took a stand against corruption in elections.
Let the law be enforced; let those whom the people prefer be chosen to fill the offices, and let the people rule, for this is the only way the people can ever come to their civil rights.

The Buick Valve-in-Head Motor

SEASON after season of continued success has demonstrated the value and preeminence of the Buick Valve-in-Head motor, the motor that has been the key note of Buick success for the past twelve years. Searching and exhaustive tests by the world's leading authorities on gas driven motors, supplemented by years of experience on Buick cars, have proven the superiority of Valve-in-Head motor over all other types. That is why it is found in Buick cars. That is why all Buicks give satisfaction.

Prof. G. Brittain Little, veteran Latin-American traveler and dean of New Orleans Spanish teachers, returned Friday from Bogalusa, where he is under engagements with the Y M C A authorities to devote two evenings each week to the teaching of the Castilian language during the winter. The professor reports busines active at the Warshington parish capital and the tendency of real estate upward by skips and bounds. Prof Little's Spanish class at the Y M C A is limited to twenty five pupils. It includes some of the leading young men and women of this community.

New Orleans, La.
639 St. Charles Ave.
November 14, 1914

Editor Mountain Advocate,

Dear Sir:-

The above item regarding the movements of your erstwhile Associate Editor is from the New Orleans Times-Picayune, but lest from so brief a notice it might be deemed that teaching Spanish at Bogalusa a couple of evenings a week is all that I am doing to keep us abroad the reputation of a typ. en Kentucky Mountaineer for business activity when he gets into a locality where talent is at par, I could add that I am regularly employed during the day from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. as Chief Interpreter and Translator in the offices of the Guatemalan Consulate General, but these hours being not very onerous to hardy Kentucky highlander, I began teaching a class in Spanish at a Local Night School which presently became consolidated with a class at the local Y. M. C. A. whence my fame spread later to far away Bogalusa the famous lumber metropolis, sixty miles by railroad New Orleans, where there is the largest sawmill in the world with a capacity of a million feet of lumber (chiefly yellow pine) a day, and employing about three thousand hands, men and women, black and white, and where a number of secretaries, clerks and stenographers determined to study and acquire Spanish, one of the National Languages of the American Republics, and made application to the City Fathers of the Southern Metropolis to recommend for their preceptor the best teacher of euphonious Castilian in all New Orleans and naturally I felt complimented and put strictly upon my "Old Kentucky mettles" to have received the recommendation and the appointment, which would necessitate a flying trip once a week out over Lake Ponchar train, Tebouritoula Indian Fields, through pine forests dotted with little cities, towns and hamlets, fields and farms, creeks and rivulets and on to Bogalusa Highlands away from the madding crowd, and dust and noise of the city. So I accepted. The next thing was to arrange with the Guatemalan Consul General to get off one day each week from the office work. Finally he said that as Thursday is the day for the sailing of the Steamers from New Orleans port for Guatemala and Central America, and most of the business of the office on that day is connected with shipments and invoicing of goods with which the duties of Interpreter and Translator in Chief has little to do, if I could arrange to take that day off it would be alright, and incur no deduction from my regular salary. So I arranged to make it Thursday. By leaving New Orleans at 4 p. m. on a Southern Central "flyer" I reach the lumber metropolis on Bogalusa creek, a little city about the size of Lexington, Ky. and like it spread over about three miles square of territory, at about 7:00 o'clock the same evening, and at the splendidly appointed Y M C A hall at once open exercises with a class of above twenty eager and susceptible young Spanish students. Thursday I remain over Bogalusa, writing letters, hunting quail and Bogalusa Creek which I vary with occasional visits to the great lumber mill with its many modern improvements among which is a "Burner" costing seventy-two thousand dollars and which consumes knots, bark and the like that might otherwise be wasted. Thursday evening I teach again at the Y M C A there, and on the early morning train, leaving at the break of day, Friday I return to New Orleans, reaching the Guatemalan Consular offices about 9 a. m. in the usual hour for opening, where the other employees gather around me at once to get something of the aura and flavor of the atmosphere in the far away pine forests of Bogalusa Highlands, and naturally look up to me as their fellow craftsman who has the ability to hold so many good positions at one time some of them sixty miles apart. But just tell them that that is "the way of the Kentucky Mountaineer". So that with teaching two evenings a week in the metropolis and two at Bogalusa, besides my regular office work and attending Coliseum Baptist church at the corner of Camp and the ill-named Terpsichore street, on Sunday my time is pretty nearly as completely occupied as it used to be when I had the honor to be Associate Editor of the Mountain Advocate. In conclusion I wish you to change the address in my paper from the old address at 1102 Carnet Street to my present address; 639 St Charles Avenue, New Orleans, Louisiana (we have all favor), which means, "if you please sir." With kindest regards to all old acquaintances and inquiring friends, and hoping that I may be so fortunate as to get off for a short holiday excursion to the Kentucky Highlands about Christmas and New Year, I am, sir. Yours very truly,

G. Brittain Little

SOWING AND REAPING

The Bible says "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." And how few of us ever give these words a thought, yet they are as true as God himself. The poet says—"Sow an act and reap a habit, sow a habit and reap a character, sow a character and reap a destiny."

Take for example the one who drinks, the first drink is but an act, the second becomes a habit, and the third becomes a part of their character; and what is the result of the first act? They shall reap for their destiny, perhaps the loss of their own soul, while they have weakened the next generation mentally, physically and morally.

We do not sow tobacco seed and expect to gather flowers, so we need not expect to plant acts and receive a blessing. Sowing and reaping is something that everybody in the world should know about, it is something that is happening all the time, we little realize that what we do today will live forever. It is not the big things of life that count the most, but the little acts of kindness we do, are more in God's sight than we think for. It takes the small things of life to make the big things so if we expect to reap great rewards we must sow the right kind of seed.

Of course you would; anybody would! We have a typewriter which does all this, and you know that the typewriter is three times as fast as any pen or pencil. This typewriter is the
